

Automatic Renewal Service Rule

Last updated at 2026-01-16

If these rules are deemed to be in conflict with the AdFox.ai Product Service Contract, these Rules shall prevail. You click to purchase, open and use the automatic renewal Service of AdFox.ai products (hereinafter referred to as the "Automatic renewal Service"), you are deemed to agree to these Rules.

You understand and agree that:

1. Your membership is for a pre-determined duration as agreed when you subscribe. Depending on your selection, it may thereafter automatically renew on a month-to-month basis until terminated. You must have a device that supports the Platform and internet access in order to view the Service Content (as defined below). You will also need to provide a current, valid, accepted method of payment (which may be updated from time to time). If you select the automatic renewal option, in order to avoid further billing of charges for the Services, you must cancel your membership at least 12 hours prior to the commencement of the relevant renewal period.

Subscription plans may be offered by us directly or in partnership with select third parties. We are not responsible for any products or services provided by such third parties. Please be aware that different subscription plans may have additional terms, such as special offers, and these are disclosed to you upon sign-up or through other communications.

2. The subscription fee for the Service and any other charges incurred (such as taxes and transaction fees) will be charged on a one-time basis, or on a monthly basis (if you select the automatic renewal option) to your selected payment method on the calendar day that corresponds to the date you commenced paying for the Service (or such other date, if that date has changed due to declined method of payment or other reason). We will authorise your payment method in anticipation of future subscription charges once you have subscribed.

3. The valid, permitted payment methods are in your Account Page. You may update your payment method from time to time. We may suspend your account if your method of payment is declined and will reactivate such service once you have settled the outstanding amount. Please note that certain payment methods may attract additional charges (such as exchange fees or processing fees). You are solely responsible for payment of such charges.

4. You may cancel your subscription to the Service at any time. You shall retain the right to access and use the Service until the termination date of your paid subscription. If you registered for the Service through a third party (e.g., via an in-app store payment method), you may be required to terminate the Service through that third party. The method for terminating the Service varies by provider, such as disabling "Auto-Renewal" in the third party's account settings.

5. We may change the plans we offer for subscribing to the Services, or adjust the pricing of the same, at any time and in any manner we determine. Any change or renewal of the fee will be notified to you by email and you agree if you have no objection and continue to apply.

6. Please note: Except in cases of a fundamental breach of the AdFox.ai product (such as the membership service being unavailable), any special provisions stipulated in this Agreement, any circumstances where a refund is mandated by law or regulation, or any other special circumstances where a refund is granted at the discretion of AdFox.ai, we shall not issue any full or partial refunds solely due to the termination of the service within a billing cycle.

7. AdFox.ai Service Agreement and Privacy Policy: <https://adfox.ai/>

AdFox.ai